Overview:

Supported by CARES and Medicaid funding, NCDHHS issued a Request for Proposals to employ over 350 Community Health Workers (CHWs) to work in 55 North Carolina counties. Counties were selected based on high COVID-19 caseloads. This CHW project started in August 2020 and is projected to end June 30, 2021. NCDHHS selected seven vendors to recruit, train, and manage CHWs.

Community Health Worker Overview:

A CHW is a frontline public health worker who is a trusted member of and/or has a close understanding of the community served. CHWs are hired and trained to support disadvantaged individuals and families in communities. CHWs use public health messaging and assist with COVID-19 contact tracing as well as assist with broader health needs.

Community Health Worker Responsibility:

CHWs will be responsible for connecting North Carolinians to medical and social support resources including: Diagnostics testing, primary care, case management, nutrition assistance, behavioral health services and financial assistance.

Community Health Worker Deployment to At-Risk Areas

Routine Operations

CHWs will work in coordination with local health departments (LHDs) and contact tracers to identify and connect with individuals who require assistance

CHWs will leverage NCCARE 360, the nation's first statewide technology platform uniting traditional healthcare settings and organizations, to address non-medical drivers such as food, housing, transportation, employment and interpersonal safety

CHWs will help individuals connect with community resources for safe housing, culturally competent healthcare and financial assistance

Workflow

1. Review notes and triage for high priority cases

2. Engage with patient and ask clarifying questions to patient

3. Identify available patient resources using NCCARE360 and primary care provider list

4. Conduct additional research and advocacy

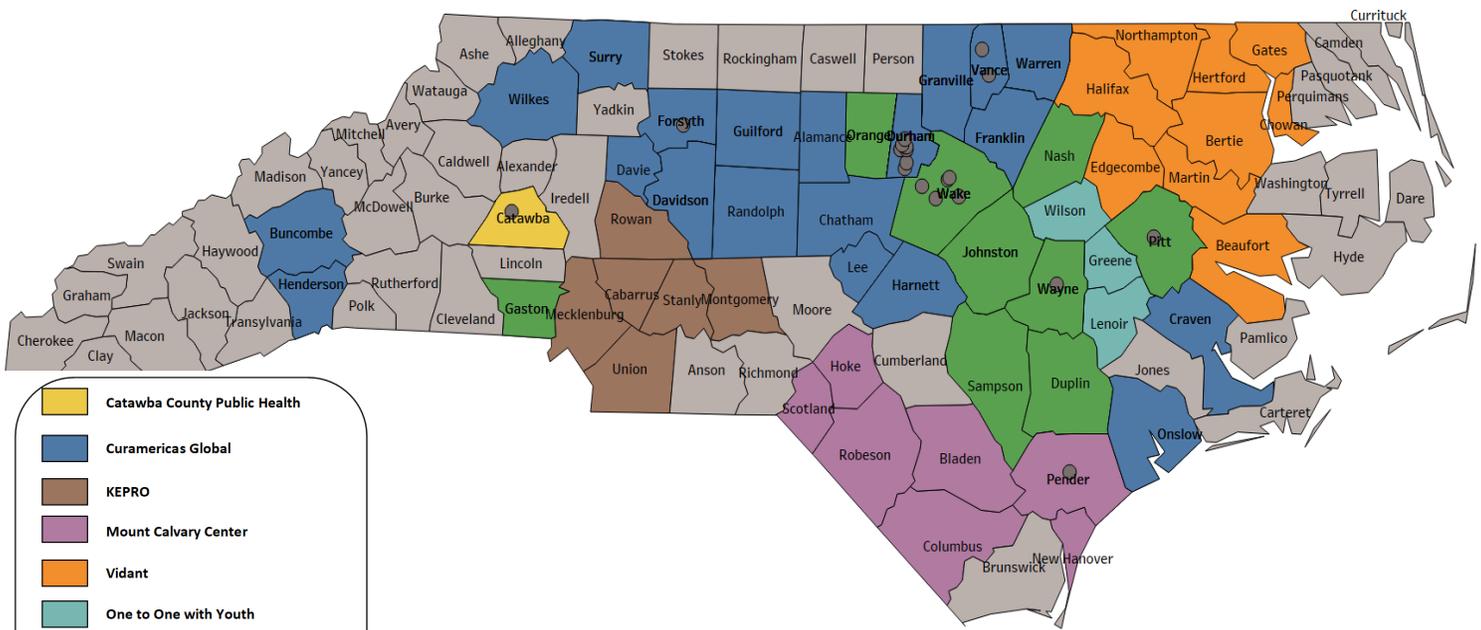

5. Connect patients to available services and close the loop
